

FOR VCS & ACCELERATORS

Your portfolio's fundraising expert in residence

Your founders' next round is your next markup. I embed with your portfolio and work with your founders 1:1, pre-seed through Series A, so more of your companies run a real process and raise faster, without adding load to your platform team.

THE GAP

Every fund has this gap

Fundraising coaching is 1:1 work. Every founder needs their own narrative, their own investor list, and weekly reps with someone who has run the process before. That is hours per founder, every week, across a three-month raise. Partners and platform teams are spread across dozens of companies at once, so the help most founders get is a deck review the week before they go out and a list of intros. The difference between raising in six weeks and stalling for six months is narrative, sequencing, and reps. Funds route that work to Lifted.

WHO TO SEND

Any founder raising pre-seed through Series A

This works across your whole portfolio, not just the companies that are struggling. Your breakout founders raise faster and on better terms with an expert running the process alongside them; your quieter ones get a raise that actually comes together. The best moments to start are a few weeks before going out or mid-raise when momentum stalls.

Every founder you send gets a straight answer on the first call, including the times the honest answer is to wait a quarter. Your referral is your reputation. I treat it that way.

Better outcomes, better returns

Founders who run a real process raise faster and at stronger terms. That flows straight into your markups and follow-on.

Off your platform team

Fundraising attention comes one founder at a time. I give every company those hours, so your team keeps its leverage.

Warm introductions over cold outreach, a compression sprint, and honest, direct guidance. The playbook is public.
